

"Elderberries 3Fold Cafe, is a cultural initiative to transform society through service. The platform blurs the lines between who is serving who, due to the all-around experience of transformation, for both server and docent, co-worker and community.

Our opportunity in Chicago, is fertile. The well-maintained anthroposophically rooted movements surrounding, will have a space to meet one another. The social organism can experience a new level of synergy and thus renewal. In a refreshing and inspiring way, we have an opportunity to redefine the value of an Anthroposophical Community Center.

Besides holding a space for social nourishment, a key ingredient to consider is empowering the youth. As both a gathering and co-working space, the youth impulse can find a moral and activating home base alongside the elders, welcoming opportunities for mentorship as well as leadership within the space and ultimately out into the world.

We aim to host the arts, as they emerge in the forms that they arrive to us, be it poetry, music, theater, conversation, workshop, or as studio space rented in the back.

The cafe will bring new opportunities to meeting and sharing anthroposophy, authentic, vital, and personal. Our goal is to enrich, expand and empower the local community. Thank you. Frank Agrama
